Lesson XVIIManagement of change.

(S. C Dube)

Many changes are coming in our modern world. we should know how to manage these changes. In today's world, the state is becoming powerless, because of the coming of various international bodies. Today we are facing the problem of population, food, energy and poverty. There has been explosion of population growth. Moreover we are also facing direct or indirect foreign invasion. So a state has to face many problems of diverse kind.

In the International scenario there are two centres of power. we can say they are the Principal operators. A developed country and also a developing country both need to keep its relation with the International power maintained.

After the World War II, an attempt was made to keep some type of International economic order. established. The International Monetary Fund was created to ensure stability of exchange rates of currency. The World Bank also provided long term loans. The country who gave loans to the needed country, thought that they would decide what was best for receiving country. These poor countries or developing countries be are the Third world countries. These countries should come together and take a stand, so that things are not manipulated for them by the super powers.

A new economic order, is the need of the hour, otherwise the Third world countries will keep on facing crisis. We should develop determination and understanding, so that we have the capability of problem-solving in the hour of crisis.
